Generally, after Valentine's Day (February 14th), the ice isn't as good because of the sun's angle.

Pickle Pond

Location: Corner of Peach Avenue & Arnold Street

- No warming house available
- Unsupervised outdoor ice rink
- Lighting available via push-button timer located on the outside of the building

Jer Lang Show Palace

Location: Marshfield Fairgrounds

LEADERSHIP MARSHFIELD PROGRAM GIVES PARTICIPANTS INSIDE LOOK AT CITY GOVERNMENT

By Tom Loucks/
Communications Director

The City's continued participation in the MACCI Leadership program is an investment in civic education and future leadership. Earlier this month, Leadership Marshfield participants visited City Hall and the Wastewater Treatment Plant, designed to provide a hands-on look at how local government works.

By directly engaging with City staff and operations, the program helps demystify municipal government and reinforces that resident involvement truly matters. Leadership Marshfield is an eight-month program that identifies current and emerging community leaders and provides training to strengthen their ability to serve as effective leaders.

Exposure to how City government functions encourages participants to see themselves as part of the process—not just observers. This understanding can spark long-term civic engagement, whether through serving on a City commission or board, volunteering, voting, or even considering a future run for Common Council. “We thank MACCI for including the City as part of its leadership program,” said City Clerk Jessica

Schiferl. “It gives participants a better understanding of the complexity of local government and the important role it plays in the community.”

By building these relationships early, the City helps cultivate informed and engaged residents who are better prepared to contribute thoughtfully to Marshfield's decision-making and leadership for years to come.

Wood County Sheriff
Shawn Becker Announces
Re-Election Bid, Updates
Community on Safety Issues

By David Ballerstein -
Marshfield Now!

WOOD COUNTY, Wis. —
Wood County Sheriff Shawn

Becker announced he will seek re-election this fall, citing continued commitment to mental health initiatives, community engagement, and public safety across the county.

Becker made the announcement during a recent appearance on County Connections, saying he and his family decided earlier this year to pursue another term. The sheriff’s race will be on the November ballot, with nomination papers due this spring and a possible primary later in the summer

“I’m truly grateful to be in this position,” Becker said. “I still want to be part of this team and the community.” Becker has served as sheriff for nearly eight years and said his campaign platform will remain focused on mental health services, community-based policing, and continued partnerships with schools and local organizations

During the interview, Becker also addressed a recent drive-by shooting in the Village of Rudolph, confirming that investigators have a potential suspect in custody. He said the incident appears to be isolated and that there is no ongoing threat to the public. “Thankfully, nobody was hurt,” Becker said, noting that multiple rounds were fired at a residence. He credited investigators for quickly gathering information with the help of community tips and social media outreach

Becker announced the addition of a new therapy dog assigned to School Resource Officer Jesse Nells through a partnership with the Auburndale School District. The dog will support students and staff and may also be deployed during community crises.

Therapy dogs, Becker said, play an important role in mental health support and have proven effective in both schools and correctional settings

K-9 Fundraiser and Jail UpdatesThe Wood County Sheriff’s Office will host a K-9 bingo fundraiser on March 26 at the Wisconsin Rapids Elks Lodge, with proceeds supporting training and equipment for law enforcement dogs. Becker said the department’s K-9 program relies heavily on community support, noting that a single dog can cost approximately $15,000 before ongoing training and equipment expenses

Becker also marked nearly one year since the opening of the county’s new jail facility, praising corrections staff for adapting to the modern building and its technology.

“Our staff has done a phenomenal job,” Becker said, adding that the project is about 95 percent complete

With winter recreation underway, Becker urged snowmobilers to stay on marked trails, respect private landowners, and follow safety guidelines. He warned that riders who leave designated trails risk citations and jeopardize future trail access

Becker also clarified the sheriff’s office’s cooperation with Immigration and Customs Enforcement under a longstanding 287(g) agreement. He said ICE detainees only apply to individuals arrested for crimes in Wood County and emphasized that ICE has not conducted operations locally. “We’re not out there picking people up for ICE,” Becker said, explaining that any involvement would be limited to mutual aid in emergency situations

Becker announced several staff updates, including the promotion of Jenna McDonald to office manager, the hiring of Lori Keena in the front office, and the addition of Deputy Jacob Van Ert, who is completing field training
Marshfield council weighs downtown housing push, future of former Weinbrenner factory

By David Ballerstein -
Marshfield Now!

MARSHFIELD, Wis. — Marshfield Common Council members on Jan. 13 discussed how to revive momentum for downtown housing and debated next steps for the city-owned former Weinbrenner shoe factory as the company’s move-out date nears.

Public comments urged council to return to prior planning goals that called for expanding downtown housing, including market-rate and owner-occupied options, and to assess what progress has been made since earlier strategies were adopted.

Preservation architect Mark Settler of Settler Design Studio told council the former factory is a strong candidate for conversion to apartments, citing features such as high ceilings and large windows. He also cautioned that demolition of parts of a historic property can affect eligibility for historic tax credits.

Finance Director Jennifer Selenske updated council on steps aimed at preventing capital-project cost overruns, including improvements in how projects are tracked and plans to implement requisitions and purchase orders designed to flag or stop spending when budgets would be exceeded.

City Administrator Steve Barg said two special council meetings scheduled for strategic planning on Jan. 17 and Jan. 31 were canceled due to a lack of quorum.

Barg also said the airport terminal building contains asbestos and mold, which could affect whether it can be used for a fire training burn. He said the city still plans to proceed with removing the building.

Alderman Tompkins reported the council's housing committee is focusing on infill home construction on scattered city-owned lots and is working to define "affordable" homeownership as it explores incentives to bring to builders.

Human Resources Director Sarah Dresel presented a request to seek proposals for professional recruitment services for the vacant public works director position, along with a budget resolution to set aside up to $50,000 from contingency for recruitment and related expenses. Tompkins criticized the proposed spending during discussion.

Barg said Municipal Court Judge John Kruse resigned effective Jan. 9 and that the city clerk prepared a notice seeking qualified applicants for a temporary appointment, with coordination involving the villages participating in the joint court. Council also moved to appoint representatives to review applications and make a recommendation.

Council discussion returned to the former Weinbrenner factory on West Third Street, reviewing redevelopment paths that included continued recruitment for a mixed-use project, interim tenancy, community-oriented uses, sale, or demolition and redevelopment. Barg noted Weinbrenner is scheduled to be out of the building by March 31.

Council later discussed strategic planning logistics, including meeting format and whether remote participation is workable for breakout-style sessions.

The council also entered closed session to discuss negotiations related to city property and public funds and later authorized actions related to an amendment to a development agreement and an extension of a lease for city-owned property.

REMINDER: CHRISTMAS TREE CURBSIDE PICKUP NO LONGER OFFERED; DROP-OFF OPTIONS AVAILABLE

By Tom Loucks/
Communications Director

Curbside pickup of Christmas trees is no longer part of the City's contract with Waste Management. It was removed several years ago to reduce expenses during a budget cycle.

Residents are welcome to use the brush and branch pile at WM to dispose of their Christmas tree. Also, according to the Wildwood Park & Zoo Facebook page, residents can drop off untreated trees from 7:30 am to 2:00 pm near the staff building.

Utility Commission to Revisit Dark Fiber Policy

By David Ballerstein -
Marshfield Now!

Marshfield, WI - The Utility Commission will consider a draft Dark Fiber Policy during its upcoming public meeting scheduled for Monday, January 19, 2026, at 4:00 p.m.

The policy review continues a discussion that began during earlier Commission meetings, where members examined how the utility's dark fiber — unused fiber-optic strands within its network — should be managed, priced, and made available to customers.

In previous discussions, commissioners weighed whether dark fiber leases should be structured using a market-based pricing model or an internal rate-of-return approach aimed at recovering long-term infrastructure costs. Staff previously reported that the dark fiber system serves a relatively small customer base, estimated at fewer than 50 potential users, while replacement costs for the network were projected at approximately $2.5 to $2.6 million.

Those figures prompted questions about how to ensure that specialized services do not place a financial burden on general utility ratepayers. The draft policy expected to be discussed Monday is intended to address customer eligibility, lease terms, and pricing principles.

The meeting will include a public comment period, during which members of the public may address the Commission after stating their name and address. The Commission may also take action on emergency matters introduced by the public.

Additional agenda items include governance and operational matters such as general manager contingency and succession planning, commission key performance indicators, job orders, bills and payroll, financial reports, and approval of minutes from the December 12, 2025 meeting.

The Commission is also scheduled to recognize Erick Boon for 25 years of service to the utility.
